

Academic Support Center Using APA: Creating a Reference Page (APA 6th Edition, Revised January 2018)

General Guidelines for Formatting a Reference Page

Your reference list provides the information necessary for a reader to locate and retrieve any source you cite in the essay.

- 1. Each source you cite in the essay must appear in your reference list (except for personal communications), and each entry in the reference list must be cited in your text.
- 2. Start the reference list on a new page. Using the same 12-point font, type the word References in upper and lowercase letters, centered, at the top of the page on the first line below the page header; do not underline, bold, or put it in quotation marks.
- 3. Your reference list must be in alphabetical order according to the author's last name; if no author is given for a particular source, alphabetize by the title of the piece. If you have more than one work by a particular author, order them by publication date, oldest to newest.
- 4. Provide first initial (not first name) and middle initial (if provided) for all authors of a particular work.
- 5. Capitalize only the first word of a title of a work, a proper noun in a title, or a word that follows a colon in a title.
- 6. Italicize titles of books and journals—note that the italics extend to include the volume number of a periodical as well as the period at the end of a book title.
- 7. Use “&” instead of “and” when listing multiple authors of a single work.
- 8. The first line of each entry on your reference page should be at your left margin; subsequent lines should be indented ½ inch (“hanging” indentation).
- 9. The entire reference page must be double-spaced—do not add extra spacing between entries.
- 10. Space once after periods that separate parts of a reference citation.
- 11. Provide the year of publication only—the only exception to this is if you are referencing a monthly or weekly magazine or a newspaper article. References to academic journals should NOT include the month or date.

PERSONAL COMMUNICATION (INTERVIEWS, CLASS NOTES)

Personal communication such as interviews, letters, e-mails, class notes not available on Canvas, and other person-to-person communication are not listed on your reference page. The first time you refer to this type of source in the body of your paper, cite the communicator's name, identify who he or she is and the type of personal communication, and provide the date of the communication. You do not need to repeat this information again.

Dr. Edward Dalton, head of the Elliot Breast Health Center team, believes that women deserve “prompt, definitive answers about their mammograms and biopsies” (personal communication, May 12, 2014).

Sociological imagination allows people to connect their personal troubles with larger social forces and understand them as public issues, not just private ones (M. Day, class notes, November 12, 2013).
